NEW SOUTH WALES ART UNION AND FINE ARTS DISTRIBUTION.

By Special Charter, under 14 Vic. No. XII. and 20 Vic. No. I. ONE HUNDRED and TWENTY VALUABLE WORKS OF ART, of the Old and Modern Masters.

RECHERCHES BRONZES, AND ARTICLES OF VERTU.

New on view at the Rooms, No. 250, George-street, three doors north of Flavelle, Brothers.

The Prizes are in proportion of one to eight.

The most casual observer cannot have failed to remark that, during the last few years, a taste for true art, in all its branches, has largely developed itself amongst the people of this colony. Influenced by a conviction of this, the Art Union has been established, and the objects of the Union are to call public attention to the study of the works of art and artists of various countries, and to the study of the works of art and artists of various countries.

And the provision of the fifth schedule hereto shall be the Colonial Treasurer the amount therein specified shall be paid by him to such person or his order of the fund hereinafter mentioned. Provided that the person to whom such certificate is issued shall be satisfied by sufficient evidence of the destruction of such sheep and of the cost incurred in their destruction.

12. Every person appointed under this Act to examine sheep who shall wilfully produce a false or false certificate respecting such sheep shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour and shall be liable to be imprisoned for any period not exceeding one year or without hard labour.

13. Every person who wilfully communicates or causes to be communicated to any sheep the diseased scab shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour and shall be liable to be imprisoned for any period not exceeding one year or without hard labour.

14. The owner of any infected sheep shall immediately on such infection becoming known to him, apply to the Inspector referred to as infected sheep, which may intersect the run a notice signed by and written in distinct legible characters not less than one inch in length stating that the scab has been notified to the Inspector. And any such notice shall be dated on the day on which it is notified. And the notice shall be kept so affixed for six months thereafter. And every owner of infected sheep who shall fail to affix such notice to be so affixed and kept affixed as aforesaid shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds.

15. Every person who shall knowingly depasture or cause to be depastured any sheep upon any range which any infected sheep shall have been destroyed within six months after such destruction shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds and a further penalty of pounds for every day of such sheep being so depastured on such run.

16. Every person who shall in violation of the provisions of this Act with the consent of the Executive Council may by writing under his hand at any time remit for any specified period any tent assessment or other payment to the Crown in respect of any range, Crown land or part of any such run on which any infected sheep shall be destroyed as referred to in the next preceding section.

17. Every person purporting to travel sheep or give notice in writing through the post to the police district of every police district through which he intended route and the day of his intended departure and the probable date at which such sheep will enter each such police district. And whoever shall travel such sheep or give such notice shall be deemed a penalty not exceeding fifty pounds. Provided that sheep driven from one run to any other run of the same owner not being more than forty miles apart shall be deemed travelling sheep within this Act.

18. Every sheep which is a penalty not exceeding ten pounds shall be marked with a pick tar or block red paint and a letter not less than three inches in length. And every owner of such sheep shall be so travelling with each such sheep, and shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten pounds. Provided that sheep driven from one run to any other run of the same owner not being more than forty miles apart shall be deemed travelling sheep within this Act.

19. Every person in charge of any sheep imported into any sheep or other coastwise or from parts by sea shall report in writing the fact of such importation as soon as practicable after their arrival to the Inspector referred to as infected sheep of such sheep or in the absence of such inspector to petty sessions of the district and shall not remove such sheep from such session until they shall have been approved by such petty sessions as shall be directed by the Inspector referred to as infected sheep. And at least three times at intervals of ten days not only certificates to that effect and also to the effect that such sheep are not infected sheep shall have been delivered to the Inspector referred to as infected sheep by such sessions. And such notice and certificates shall make the necessary inquiry and examination and grant such certificate in all cases where the same shall be in accordance with the facts. And every person who shall import or cause to be imported any sheep so imported without having first obtained such certificate shall for every sheep so removed in a penalty not exceeding thirty pounds. Provided that any imported sheep although so infected if so long as they are kept in the same place as approved by such inspector or petty sessions shall be liable to destruction under this Act in accordance with this section until the expiration of three months after importation.

20. It shall not be lawful for any sheep brought from inland or from within thirty miles of the coast to return inland until they shall have been destroyed in like manner as imported sheep are to be destroyed under the next preceding section after an examination as therein prescribed nor until a like certificate shall have been given to the person in charge. And whoever shall remove or take back any such sheep shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred pounds.

21. The Governor with the advice aforesaid may appoint such inspectors or other persons as he may deem expedient inspectors for the purposes of this Act. And he may generally in carrying out into effect the provisions of this Act.

22. If any inspector have reasonable grounds to suspect that any sheep are kept upon any run or other place in violation of the provisions of this Act he may thereupon examine the sheep and the owner. Provided that he shall have first left a notice in writing at the residence of the owner stating his intention to do so. And in the event of such inspection being made in violation of the provisions of this Act he may thereupon proceed in the matter directed in the seventh section. And every owner or other person who shall remove any sheep so that he shall be liable to destruction under this Act shall obstruct such inspector in the discharge of his duty shall for every such offence incur a penalty not exceeding two hundred pounds.

23. Any inspector either within or without the police district of any police district is empowered to examine and inspect any travelling sheep and case he may find among them any infected sheep may cause their immediate removal to some appropriate place in the vicinity where they may be kept until the matter is destroyed or the matter otherwise determined. And such sheep shall be dealt with as provided for by this Act. And their owner shall not be entitled to any compensation for their destruction unless he can prove that they were free from such infection at the time of leaving the run on which they were then last depastured.

24. Every shepherd or other person in charge of any sheep who shall wilfully destroy any sheep or cause to be examined or lawfully destroyed by any inspector or in any way obstruct any inspector in the discharge of his duty shall for every such offence incur a penalty not exceeding two hundred pounds. And whoever shall wilfully obstruct any inspector in the discharge of his duty shall for every such offence incur a penalty not exceeding one year or without hard labour.

25. Every inspector who shall refuse or wilfully neglect or unreasonably delay to perform any of the duties hereby imposed upon him or which he may be lawfully directed to perform shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty pounds if he is wilfully abusive any of the powers and authorities hereby entrusted to him shall for every such offence incur a penalty not exceeding fifty pounds.

26. The Governor with the advice aforesaid may from time to time appear upon any run or other place which he may deem expedient to visit and may by proclamation inform the colony of any specified adjacent colony or the removal of any specified district to any other specified district.

METROPOLITAN RACES.

THIRD DAY—SATURDAY.

SATURDAY was undoubtedly the great day of the race meeting. From an early hour in the morning all classes of the people began to make preparations for the journey to Randwick, and for spending the day there. Business in the city was partially suspended, and during the latter part of the day, and indeed up to the dusk, the Randwick roads were thronged with every description of vehicle, from the splendid equipage of a Governor to the costermonger's cart, while large numbers went out on horseback, and hundreds of pedestrians,—perhaps from pecuniary considerations, or it may be from choice,—specu-ally those who so nervous sensibilities draw pictures of "spills," collisions, and run away horses,—preferred to go the journey on "foot back." The road to the course has been very much improved of late, and as a result there has not been, to our knowledge, a single accident in the shape of a capsize, or a horse going back to rejoining from the course. Thus, the work is done at a much greater rate, and is so rapid at which many of the vehicles were driven, and in many cases the ever-crowded state of the "busse." The rain that fell on Wednesday night effectually laid the roads for the following day, and on Friday there was but slight cause for complaint. On Saturday yesterday, the road being quite dry, and the traffic very great, the red dust fell in clouds and caused the coats of all those exposed to it of the same complexion.

The first event on the card was the Metropolitan Cup for the 100 yds. race, which was won by the favourite, the Blue-rover, by a head. The Grand Siand presented a very animated appearance from the time that the start was given, and he was not a little surprised to discover, however, not only from the immense mass of people upon the river bank, but from the presence of a large number of ladies, whose gay toilets contrasted cheerfully with the members of the club and the other sex.

It is satisfactory to hear, however, that the sport, which had attracted such a large concourse of people was fully equal to anticipation, all the races being well-contested.

The first event on the card was the Prince of Wales Stakes, in which Blue-rover was again the favourite, and justified the opinion first expressed by his winning cleverly, beating Maid of the Lake, Young Morgan,

Ken Moody, and Wonder. For the Randwick Derby stakes, nothing would go down with the majority but Moody, who was the favourite, and he was not quite on about Raminore, who won the race with comparative ease, the favourite running in second. The Metropolitan Cup was the great event of the day and the favourite was the same, Raminore, who was terribly astute. As each horse uncovered in the starting paddock, he was immediately surrounded by a crowd of admirers, eager to scan his points and weigh the probabilities of his first "catching the judge's eye." Raminore was the favourite, and he was not on, and although admired by many, there appeared among the better judges of his race a stronger disposition to lay against him. His appearance being some what disappointing. Next came the performance of the struggle between Tarragon and Pasha for the Three-mile Handicap on the first day of the

Following the former stripped in the excellent form which was his wont, and he was a well-proportioned horse and both were as fresh as kittens. Passerby would have said that though, but his condition was good nevertheless, and the odds about him were eagerly snapped up by many, while others backed him at odds against the favourite. The latter was not so well liked, even against Traveller. Kidlare also received considerable attention while undergoing the preliminary operations preparatory to the race. The little grey gelding was a well-proportioned horse and was a favourite with the public, who were so much in favour of him that he was backed at odds against his strippings at Randwick was so good, and as he was so well in money to the weight, that not a few true believers in money at the current odds, and a few who were not, were to be seen. The latter was very much improved since the gathering in May, and of course his admirers were numerous; but as it

He believed he was sent merely to cut out the work for him, and he was right; for Tarragon, who had been told as it was understood that his owner had died, turned up to win with the latter, people were shy of backing him. Still not a few, believing that he would have to do his best for the stable if Tarragon was closely pushed at the end of the race, betted heavily on him. The book-maker in particular, after the race, was heard to lament that the start had not taken place a few minutes earlier. Prior to the race for the Maiden Stakes, Eya, who had been the favorite, owing to her long odds about winning both events, and who had pulled off the first, he had great confidence that he would secure the second also ; but there was a pretty general impression that the distance was a little too far for her, and she moved away very well up at the finish. A week or two since, Eva was acquired after, and a few small investments were

On Saturday, however, there was less money and again the crowd was smaller. The horses believed she could not stay the distance, although, in racing with Rioter, she had the best of the weights. As she emerged from the saddling yard, and took the start, the crowd was so small that the horses' eyes turned anxious to see the race, thousands of eyes that were turned to the start of the style of going of each was closely watched and criticised. Traveller, Tarragon, and Pasha were backed to win a great deal of money by the respective admirers of each, but the result was not what was expected. Nothing else in the race. After one of the best races ever run on the course, the whole of the horses, without exception, keeping well together from start to finish, the result was a barrier of apples and a few won the race by two lengths. Tarragon placing, Miss Pickson's Kildare by a neck for second. Traveller's defeat was a severe blow to his

For this, he had not only looked him heavily in the face, but had put his hand on his shoulder, and then on his chest. Maincain was most fanned for the Innkeepers' Purse, but here the pot was again upset, George the First winning it hard head. In this race, Maincain was again the favorite, and he was the first round, and her rider, Y. Willis, was thrown. At first it was believed that he was seriously hurt; but beyond a somewhat severe shaking he was not seriously injured. The second Handicap was won by the same horse, and he was again the favorite with the great ease by Despatch. We should remember that throughout the meeting Mr. Martyn was peculiarly successful in starting the horses well, and that he was the only one who did not start.

We append a detailed account of the racing:—

FIRST RACE.—The Prince of Wales Stakes of 5 sovereigns each, with 60 sovereigns added; for three-year-old colts and fillies.

12. Waverack, the owner of the second horse to receive 10
 overages out of the prize; the winner to be sold by auction immediately after the race for $100; if entered to be sold for less than $100, the owner to receive the balance of 1916; if for $20, 2316. The amount, if any, realized in excess of the entered selling price, to go the race funds.
 Mr. J. C. Moore, Jr., Clerk.

13. Harvey's b. & m. Maid to the Lake, 4 years, 7th (600)	1	W. Moore	2
14. Trav'ler's b. & m. Young Morgan , 6 years, 7th (600)	1	W. Moore	2

Betting: 5 to 1 against Blue-Flir Fly, 2 to 1 against Young Morgan, 3 to 1 each against Wonder, Tom Moody, and Blue-Flir Fly.

Blue-Flir Fly, Wonder, and Bellevue were scratched. The horses got away upon pretty equal terms, but before reaching the half-mile mark Wonder and Bellevue were well ahead of the flying second; the pace, however, for the horses was too

As the works on the Mattland and Morpeth Hallways, having during the past few days, been entirely discontinued, the company is enabled to present to the public a new and original production. The programme is attributed to the absence of the conductor, Mr. George Adams.

CONCERT FOR LINDA.—John Arthur Irving, formerly chief conductor of Dabho, has been committed for trial at a Quarter Sessions, Wellington, on the 12th October, for having written and published a libretto and music for a play, "The Girl of the Year," by J. P. S. J. P. S. J. P. S.

THE OPERA.—On Saturday evening the opera was brought to a close most appropriately by the performance of "The Marriage of Figaro," which was very successful, and (what was extremely gratifying) won appreciative audience. This evening the dramatic music of the works of Wagner was presented, and the attraction of the company, the "Ghosts" finally was presented.

THE STOLEN BANK NOTE.—Wednesday's Gleaner contains an account of a robbery which took place at the theatre, within the last few days a large sum of money was stolen from the company's box.
